JOIN US AS WE CELEBRATE THE RESURRECTION!

FAMILY EASTER EVENT

Saturday, March 31, 8:45 AM—11:45 AM

Join us as kids and their families and friends travel through five stations uniquely designed to encourage thinking and get families talking about the final events of Jesus' life here on earth. We will experience the excitement surrounding Jesus' arrival in Jerusalem, the significance of the Last Supper, the darkness at Gethsemane, the sacrifice Jesus made on the cross, and the joy of His resurrection. Hands on learning with take home activities to continue your journey with Jesus at home. Walk with Jesus begins at 8:45 AM and will conclude at 11:45 AM. Walk with Jesus will incorporate our traditional Easter Egg hunt so there will be no separate egg hunt this year.

EASTER MORNING WORSHIP

Sunday, April 1; 7:30 and 10:30 AM

7:30 At the Cemetery

Meet at Mount Rock Cemetery at 7:30 AM for a short service to consider the joy and wonder of those who, visiting his grave, discovered that Jesus had risen from the dead! Come for songs, scripture, fellowship and refreshments.

10:30 In the Sanctuary

Our worship service at our regular time will celebrate the risen Lord with joyful hymns and praise songs, children's bells, chancel choir anthem, the baptism of Cillian Joseph Finan, and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

PASTOR'S PAGE

From Pastor James Thomas

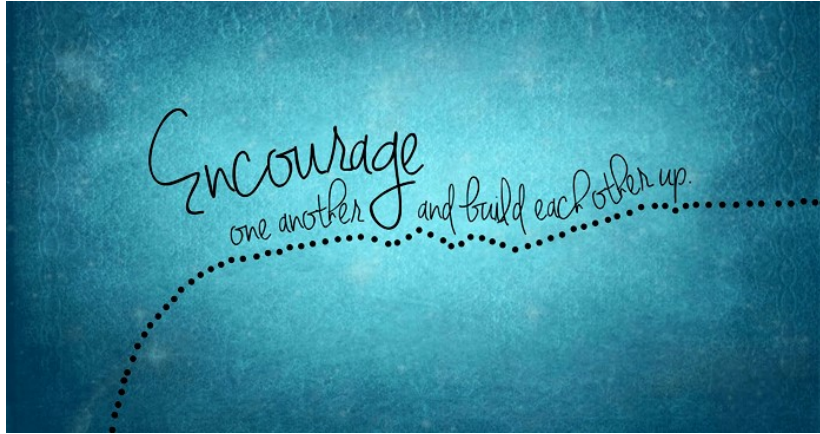

Joseph of Cyprus had a very important role in the early church. Although you probably know him better as Barnabas, the nickname given to him by the apostles. Barnabas means "son of encouragement."

Barnabas first appears in Acts 4:36 when he brings a gift to the early church.

He appears again in Acts 9 when the disciples are struggling about whether or not to trust the veracity of the Apostle Paul's conversion. Barnabas encourages them to believe him based on the evidence of God's work in him. In Acts 11, Barnabas arrives in Antioch and when he, "saw what the grace of God had done, he was glad and encouraged them all to remain true to the Lord with all their hearts." Acts chapters 11 through 14 recount the shared ministry of Paul and Barnabas. But in Acts 15, Paul and Barnabas find themselves at odds over John Mark, a potential partner in ministry who had previously disappointed Paul. Barnabas wants to give him another chance, while Paul does not. This leads Paul and Barnabas to part ways. Barnabas takes John Mark with him on a missionary journey to Cyprus and Paul takes Silas to Syria. As the account progresses, there is no indication that Barnabas had chosen poorly. In fact, we read in 2 Timothy 4:11 Paul asking Timothy to bring John Mark for a visit, because, "he is helpful to me in my ministry." Had Barnabas not encouraged John Mark to continue in ministry, Paul and the church would have been poorer for it.

Encouragement is very important! Have you ever received one of those notes or comments that buoyed your spirit? Some people, like Barnabas, seem to be gifted with the ability to encourage others. It is a wonderful and necessary gift! Yet should we leave the task of encouragement only to those rare few to whom it comes naturally? I do not think so! We all know the value of being encouraged, and no one is unable to give encouragement. So I believe we are all called to encourage each other! In 1 Thessalonians 5:11, Paul tells the believers to, "encourage one another and build each other up."

Here are a number of ways you can bring encouragement to others:

Speak words of encouragement:

"Pleasant words bring healing to the bones." (Proverbs 16:24). We often worry how our words will be received and there are many people who do not appear to receive positive comments very well. However, as awkward as they seem to be receiving your words, it is highly likely that under the surface, your words are blessing them deeply.

Write a note: The hand-written note is almost a lost art. But it shouldn't be. While positive comments on social media are helpful, written notes of encouragement are powerful! I confess that I have a box in which I keep every encouraging note I've ever received. Sometimes, when I'm feeling down and wondering if my life and work matters, I read through those notes and am reminded that I have indeed had a positive impact in peoples' lives.

Be present: "Parakaleo" is a Greek word for encouragement. It is made up of the root word "kaleo" which means "called" and the prefix "para" which means "alongside." The power of presence is undeniable.

One key to effective encouragement is to be specific. While general words of encouragement are helpful, specific words are far more so. If someone has helped you or inspired you in a specific way, let them know! The specificity will give your words much more power.

Let us covenant to establish a spirit of encouragement in our church! Garrett Kell writes, "When encouragement is absent from the life of a church people will feel unloved, unimportant, useless and forgotten. God knows his people are in need of grace-filled reminders, so he calls us to 'encourage one another daily' (Hebrews 3:13)." I think we know how valuable our sisters and brothers in Christ are to us, but the question we should ask ourselves is—do they know it?! Let us not assume that others know how much we value them. Let's tell them!

Encouragement brings life. It is like oxygen for the soul. Who can you encourage today?

FOLLOWING CHRIST'S CALL THROUGH LIFE'S JOURNEY

Rev. Robert Zorn

No doubt we have all heard and noticed large flocks of wild geese which have been flying north to their summer nesting grounds. It is a welcome sign of spring. In their migration we take hope that our cold winter will soon evolve into the warmer days of spring and summer. Secretly, we may take some comfort that we are at mid-route, and not at either end of the goose migration.

For several days recently a single wild goose flew up and down and back and forth across our valley. It called a plaintive call as it flew, as if looking for a flock to join and continue its journey. We can only guess why it was lost from the rest. Perhaps a strong wind blew it off course or it may have been distracted by something on the ground. It is gone now; may we hope for a happy reunion.

People get lost, too. Jesus spoke of the lost (prodigal) son, the lost sheep and lost souls.

This happens when strong forces or tempting distractions, which come into our awareness by our Christian family, may idle away our time on "Forgetful Green," as in Pilgrim's Progress.

Easter will welcome demonstrations of a large number of believers all following the call of the risen Christ. We must continue in His footsteps through all the seasons of our lives. And let us listen for the cries of those who may be lost.

THE LONE WILD BIRD

*The lone wild bird
In lofty flight,
Is still with Thee,
Nor leaves Thy sight.*

*The ends of earth
Are in Thy hand,
The sea's dark deep
And far off land.*

*And I am Thine!
I rest in Thee,
Great Spirit come,
And rest in me.*

PRESCHOOL NEWS

From Ginny Westover, Assistant Teacher

Everybody has an "off" day every once in a while. You know the kind I mean; those occasional days when you begin the morning by pouring orange juice on your cereal, then slide behind the steering wheel and realize you still have bedroom slippers on your feet.... My oldest daughter recently reminded me about the time I put Desitin on my toothbrush (fortunately, it never made it to my teeth!)

These kind of moments are usually good for a laugh! Thanks in large part to Dr. Seuss, author of some of the best-loved children's books on the market, the nursery and preschool classes have enjoyed lots of laughs over the past several weeks (and learned a lot at the same time!)

Preschool classes began Dr. Seuss' birthday celebration a couple of days early with something new: Wacky Wednesday. This rather crazy day turned out to be a lot of fun and a great time of learning! "It all began with that shoe on the wall... A shoe on the wall, shouldn't be there at all! Then I looked up and I said, "Oh, man!" And that's how Wacky Wednesday began." So begins the book, Wacky Wednesday. When our students walked through the curtain of streamers hanging from the classroom door they were greeted not only by a shoe on the wall, but by an umbrella on the ceiling, beanbag chairs on top of the dividing wall, a palm tree by the workbench, an upside down table with shoes on its legs, a scrambled snowman and lots more! Not only did our classroom look wacky, the teachers and students did too! From the moment their day began, the children's observation and thinking skills were being put to full use. Upside down and missing calendar numbers gave opportunity for numeral recognition and ordering practice. And what happens when you sit on a mat that's face down? You turn it over and figure out whose mat you have! What a great opportunity to practice initial and ending letter sounds! It didn't take long for everyone to get back to their own mat! The letter of the day was "W" (of course!). Mrs. Powell had created a fun practice paper to do at project time. The children's job was to cut out a number of picture squares, determine which began with the sound "W" makes, and glue the picture either onto the great big "W" (for those pictures that did begin with "W") or onto the great big trash can (for those pictures that did not). We finished the day with a visit from Pastor Jim and his Cat in the Hat red and white striped stove pipe head topper (he was dressed wacky, too!). A few lucky duckies and a quick moving fella heard Pastor Jim read sitting under the umbrella!

Nursery school students enjoyed some of Wednesday's wackiness on Thursday. They were quick to notice the silly, mixed up snowman and got a chuckle from the "Japanese hat" on Clifford's head. The children were not too many minutes into playtime when the excited cries of "Teacher, Teacher! Come see this!" rang across the room. Soon there was quite a gathering at the sink and lots of chatter about the critters in the soap container. "Is that bug real or plastic?" "How did that frog get in there?" "How are we going to get him out?!" Good questions, we're just not sure what the answers are to some of them! But even Dr. Seuss didn't have all the answers..."why are they glad, and sad, and bad? (speaking of the fish in One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blue Fish). I don't know, go ask your dad!" Silly, non-sensical rhyming words are always fun to repeat and they open another pathway toward beginning reading success.

It's one thing for things to look wacky and words to sound wacky, but another thing all together when people act wacky. At Chapel Time this month, Pastor Jim read to us from the Bible about people who wanted to kill Jesus and had Him nailed to a cross to die. Then Pastor Jim told us that even though Jesus could have stopped the people from crucifying Him, He chose to die and receive the punishment that our sins deserved so that we would not have to. That may seem rather wacky... Why would One who did not deserve God's judgement willingly receive the judgement that our sins deserve? The Bible says that "God demonstrates His love for us in this: while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). That is the most wonderful wacky there is!

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION COMMUNIQUE

From CE Director, Ginny Westover

At just about the same time every year, two events take place that have become much looked forward to annual gatherings among the 18 and under population here at Lewistown Presbyterian Church. These two happenings look vastly different from each other in size, structure and student dynamics, but they share the same purpose: growing kids deeper in their relationship with Jesus. Here's a glimpse of what goes on at each.

During the first weekend of March each year, the downtown Harrisburg Hilton is overrun with around 500 teenagers and their leaders. IMPACT is the drawing card. This high energy youth conference is sponsored by Central Pennsylvania Youth Ministries (CPYM). Its name defines its purpose: to impact teens with the gospel of Jesus Christ; and, in turn, challenge teens to make an impact on their friends and family. This year, six of our youth and six youth from McVeytown Presbyterian traveled together to IMPACT.

We caravanned to the Hilton Friday evening. Once the registration process was completed and kids, suitcases, and snacks had found their assigned rooms, it was off to the first session of the weekend! Elevators morphed into sardine cans and stairways clogged with students until all converged on the main auditorium. Here, CPYM leaders Mark and Danny (who never grow old) got the kids pumped with crazy icebreakers and introduced the band. Hand clapping, foot stomping praise songs gave way to quieter worship before the speaker stepped onto the stage.

This year, California youth pastor, Neil Hoffman challenged the kids to push back against what culture says and push "pause" before acting on their feelings; always looking to the truth of God revealed in the Bible to define who they are and what really matters. Break-out seminars Saturday morning and afternoon reinforced Neil's message and gave lots of food for thought on other pertinent topics like relationships, addictions, technology and sharing your faith.

One of the highlights of the weekend was the time spent de-briefing together. Usually this was in the evening, after the sessions. There was good conversation and sharing about what God was impressing on hearts, followed by a time to pray together before heading to bed. It was also a time to see how our group contest was going.

McVeytown's Youth leader, Dave, had put together a fun photo scavenger hunt that sent the kids all over the hotel. The result? Among other things, LPC Youth brought home a purple light-up cowboy hat (ask one of the Youth for the back story) and the prize winning team! Way to go, Annalise and Skyler!

The remaining challenge, of course, is for the kids to live out what they learned and keep what God did in the forefront of their thinking now that they're home. Here are a few thoughts about the weekend from some of our Youth: "Everyone was so nice and so open." "It was an inspiring, renewing, spiritual experience." "I am less shy about my faith now." "I feel closer to God." "It was exhilarating to feel the presence of God!" "I definitely developed a stronger bond with God after straying away." Please continue to pray for our Youth as they face daily pressures that challenge their commitment to Christ.

A number of the Youth jumped from IMPACT into helping with Kidz Klub, a weekly VBS-type program for the younger set. This year, the Christian Education Committee decided to combine two objectives into one and make Communion instruction a part of 2018's Lenten Kidz Klub. This necessitated coming up with our own curriculum. The result was "Living the Lord's Supper." For the past four weeks, an average of 14 children have been using their imaginations and stepping back into Bible times. The journey has taken them to Jerusalem for the annual Passover celebration. Along the way, the children have learned about God's first rescue of his people from slavery in Egypt. They've learned how the Israelites had to trust God and obey his directives to put blood of a slain lamb on their doorposts in order to be saved from death. They've stomped grapes and made bread without leaven in preparation for their own Passover meal. By the time this newsletter is published, the kids will have participated in Jesus' Last Supper and learned where our present day celebration of Communion began. They, along with their parents, will have had the opportunity to receive the sacrament. Through all of these weeks, our prayer and greatest desire has been for each child to see Jesus as the Lamb of God who died to take away their sin and to receive this amazing gift of life. This is the hope and aim of each lesson, each youth or children's program, and each family event here at Lewistown Presbyterian Church.

APRIL FAMILIES OF THE WEEK

To get to know each other better, we asked our families of the week to tell us about themselves:

Larry and Kathy Boop

Kathy works in insurance at Kish Bank. Larry is retired. He previously worked for the Mifflin County School District and Standard Steel. Larry and Kathy have four children, and like spending time with their grandchildren. They also just brought home a black Labrador dog. They have enjoyed being at our church.

Sherri Botteicher

Sherri likes to walk, watch television, and do things with her family. She is also a big fan of Penn State football and the Lady Lions.

Nancy Bowman

Nancy is retired after working at the Mifflin-Juniata County Day Treatment Center, a day-time psychiatric program. Her late husband Bob was a football coach at Lewistown High School and a principal at Kishacoquillas High School. She and Bob travelled the United States after they retired. Nancy likes keeping in touch with her two children and going to lunch with friends, and greatly appreciates her wonderful neighbors and friends from our church. She enjoys visits by Rev. Jim Thomas and Rev. Bob Zorn. She also thanks church members who stop by and think of her. She emphasizes that there are lots of wonderful people in our church.

Marsha Soult

Marsha is retired from being a teacher, school administrator, educational consultant and superintendent. She enjoys learning about Civil War issues and follows politics closely. She loves our church. It has always been a great source of inspiration and nurture for her. She wrote the historical play she was used for our two-hundredth anniversary celebration and reprised for our 225th. She is glad to be part of the Lewistown Presbyterian Church.

Jim and Devon Thomas

Jim has been our pastor for over nine years. Previous to that, he was the Associate Pastor at the Central Presbyterian Church of Downingtown, Pennsylvania and Youth Director at the First Presbyterian church of Duluth, Minnesota. Devon is an academic advisor in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies at Penn State. Jim and Devon like to travel and go kayaking at the Thomas family's cottage along the Juniata near Millerstown. They both greatly enjoy singing in the choir, and going on church mission trips, including the mission trip to Guatemala this past June. They both agree that their favorite thing about Lewistown Presbyterian is the people! Jim is also very grateful for our wonderful church staff.

Gary and Barbara Treaster

Gary works at Lewistown Cabinet, and Barbara works at her family's business: Wilson's Meats and Groceries. They like going to NASCAR drag races, hiking in the mountains, and going to North Carolina to see their grandchildren. They have two children: Tyler who is a U.S. Marine currently living in North Carolina and Dana who lives in Brooklyn, New York. They appreciate the kindness of the people of Lewistown Presbyterian where Barbara's parents were active members.

BACKYARD MINISTRIES

Cookie Bakers Needed! Backyard Ministries has asked our church family if we can support their ministry by making cookies for Backyard families. As many of you know, in the past we have made quarts of food for families once a month. While the hot (or cold) food was greatly appreciated, it is hard to transport, and keep at the right temperature. Cookies can be made in the comfort of your own home then placed in the container in the church freezer marked "Backyard Cookies." If you could package the cookies in bags of 6, with the date marked on the bag.

Kevin will pick up and distribute the cookies, on the 4th Tuesday of the month. The cookies are more than food to nourish; they are a connection to the families who have children coming to Backyard Club to learn about Jesus. Please consider helping with this outreach to our community. ~Lynn Curry
