DECEMBER 2019

JANUARY 2020

Happy New Year! It's a little early to offer this phrase in celebration of a new calendar year, but our church calendar begins anew with the start of Advent on December 1. Advent/Christmas/Epiphany is one of my favorite times in the life of the church.

I look forward to the preparation and anticipation of Christmas Day during Advent. I like the waiting and watching encouraged during Advent as we prepare our hearts and home to receive the newborn King. I love the celebration of Christmas and singing with great energy, "Joy to the World the Lord has come!" I love the kiddos in their Christmas dresses and bow ties and being surrounded by my church family in candlelight.

And just when the world tells us the Christmas is over on December 26, we get to respond that it is not over. We continue celebrating Christ's birth through Epiphany Sunday. Because shouldn't the news of Christ's birth be celebrated for more than one day?

I love the hope, peace, joy and love lifted up this time of year. Not by worldly standards found in gift getting, but in more holy ways that celebrate the gifts of family, friends, faith, and fellowship. Oh, but I do love gift giving! Finding a perfect item or experience for someone I care about and knowing it will be a blessing to them!

During this season, we celebrate other blessings in the life of the church. In particular, we celebrate Rev. Bob Zorn's retirement as Minister of Visitation at Lewistown Presbyterian Church. On December 29, we will give thanks to God for Pastor Bob's faithful witness to Jesus Christ for 26 years serving LPC.

Pastor Bob, and Carol, will continue worshipping with us, thanks be to God! Join us the last Sunday of December as we offer our thanks and blessings to Pastor Bob during worship and at the Community Luncheon after worship. Cards of appreciation are welcomed this day, too.

I'm still making my way around to the families and individuals of Lewistown Presbyterian Church and if I haven't met you, I look forward to doing so this month. Two months as your interim pastor has flown by with much energy, love, and excitement. I'm impressed every day by those leading the church, giving through the church, and helping the church in a variety of ways. THANK YOU for your interest in serving in a variety of ways.

And if you and your family have stepped back from worship attendance or involvement in the church, I hope you will embrace this new church calendar year as an opportunity to make a "spiritual" new year resolution. Perhaps attending worship or a bible study or getting involved with a mission activity might be the best way to begin your year in the right frame of mind. Our spiritual journey was not meant to be lived alone. God created us to be in community together and we want you in our community each and every day.

Advent Blessings!
Pastor Sarah

THE LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS

Rev. Robert Zorn, Minister of Visitation

For me, one of the greatest joys of the Christmas season is watching again, and again, the annual classic entitled, "A Christmas Story." It is based on a book written by Jean Shepherd and tells of a little boy's quest for the most desirable Christmas gift that any boy could ever desire: a Red Ryder, lever action, one thousand shot carbine air rifle (B.B. gun) with a compass in the stock. I feel a very close affinity with Ralphie and his wish. Actually, we were very much alike in both era and environment. My childhood was also peopled with bullies and braggers and loving mothers and compassionate teachers. I can even remember driving a big Oldsmobile like the one that Ralphie's family owned. Abandoned cars and broken wooden fences were in view every time we walked to town. Coal-fired furnaces and marauding neighborhood dogs were also a part of our experience.

Miss Wiggins, our one-room, 8th grade school teacher wisely never encouraged us to announce and compare what we wished to receive for Christmas. In our own family of seven kids, "hinting" was definitely discouraged. Santa, aka Mamma and Daddy, knew what we needed and what was good for us. However, one year I audaciously broke the "no hinting" rule and made my heart's desire known in several ways. I had seen in one of the pages of the Boys Life magazine a most wonderful prospective gift. It was a khaki colored 2-cell flashlight with the lens attached at a 90 degree angle and a belt clip on the back. Like Ralphie, who needed the air rifle to fend off the terrible Black Bart, I began to build the case that I should be blessed with such a magnificent gift. I took what I thought was a reasonable course of action. I started early and made many (not so subtly) inferences as to how it would be good for me to have this flashlight.

Our farmhouse had been wired for electricity the same year that I was born. Other buildings, such as the barn, the chicken and pig houses, were not wired. To visit those facilities to carry feed and water in the early morning or evening darkness it was necessary to carry a kerosene lantern. I casually mentioned that if I had the flashlight clipped to my belt, with my hands free, I could carry both the feed and the water in the same trip. Also, nocturnal visits to the little necessary building in our backyard could be made more safely with a lights. Then, there was the safety factor. A battery-powered flashlight was not likely to be tipped over and start a fire (remember Mrs. O'Leary's cow). Or if some varmint should sneak into the hen house with villainous intent, the flashlight and our old "22" could quickly discourage the raider.

Imagine my joy on a Christmas morning. I opened the tightly wrapped cylinder and found the prize—the flashlight with the angled-head and the belt clip. To this day, I can remember running out the front door and pointing the light at our big old elm tree, the tallest tree on the farm. The shaft of light penetrated the darkness and illuminated the tree to the highest branches. I knew then and there that I would have to prove the inestimable value of such a light. I believe that in the year that followed, it fulfilled my greatest expectations.

I kept the light hanging on a nail behind our kitchen door and never went out in the darkness without it. It accompanied me to do the feeding, to chase raccoons and rats away from the corn crib, and to go out to the woods to see what our old dog had treed. As winter faded into spring, and I began to travel by bicycle, I clipped the light to the basket at the front of the bike and safely navigated the rough country lane where we lived. Several years later, as I acquired my first car, I carried that light. If one or both of the headlights would go out, I could see which fuse to wrap with chewing gum foil to restore the circuit. Then there were flat tires. The light could be set upright and would shine on the wheel that had to be changed. Again, the ubiquitous light came to the rescue and the task was safely completed. I kept and used that flashlight for many years. It continued to dispel darkness and guide my way.

Locations and situations change but in every age and place there are fearsome shadows. In our personal lives there may be perplexing problems which seem to darken our future. And we are certainly aware of the many world-wide conflicts and disasters which cloud the way ahead for all humanity. But Christ gives us hope. It is as if we all have received a magnificent gift. It is a light to guide us through the days and years ahead; a light which can shine to the top of the highest mountain and across the widest ocean and to the branches of the tallest trees.

CHRISTIAN ED

Ginny Westover, Christian Ed Director

The closest I have come to royalty is watching highlights from the wedding of England's Prince Harry and Meghan Markle last spring. Maybe taking a virtual tour of The Crown Museum counts for something, too. I can't say that I know or have been personally introduced to any modern day king. While learning about one sounds somewhat intriguing, the subject of monarchy does not captivate my interest enough to motivate me to invest the time and energy needed to do the research. I am reminded during this holiday season that there were, however, at least two individuals (quite possibly more) many centuries ago, who not only gave time and energy to researching information about a King's whereabouts, but gave up a significant number of weeks to travel and find this royal One. These doggedly determined detectives were, of course, the "magi" whose story we find in the second chapter of Matthew's gospel. Their persistent pursuit and joyous worship of King Jesus leaves us with much to ponder and put into practice.

In the spirit of these three Ps, "Pursue, Ponder, and Practice," the Christian Education Committee would like to offer a number of resources to encourage our spiritual journeys as families and individuals and help prepare us to celebrate the birth of Christ. We will be doing this in several ways. In the back of the sanctuary you will find a table filled with a variety of Advent materials; devotional booklets, coloring pages (not just for kids, by the way...), calendars, activities to do together as a family, crafts to make, and books to enjoy (both children's and adult's). Please help yourself to any that best fit your style and schedule. Unless the material is labeled "Please enjoy and then return to Lewistown Presbyterian Church," it is yours to keep!

We will also be utilizing the LPC Friends Facebook page as a means to encourage and interact with each other. Each day/week during the months of December and January Pastor Sarah or a member of the Christian Education Committee will post a seasonal question. Read each, ponder, and share your thoughts! All comments should be made according to Ephesians

4:29, "only what is helpful for building others up according to their needs, that it may benefit those who listen." No matter how many times or how few you are able to participate, your contribution is valuable! Most of us spend time on the internet each day, so why not jump onto the LPC Friends page? It will be a great way to encourage one another. Fun, too!

Instead of having an Advent Family Event this year, the CE Committee has chosen to hold an Epiphany Party on Saturday, January 4. In western Christianity, Epiphany is traditionally a feast day that commemorates the manifestation (epiphany) of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, seen in the visit of the Magi coming to worship the Child-King, Jesus. There are so many rich truths and blessings to be pursued and pondered in this story! We can't promise camel rides, but we can promise a meaningful and fun-filled time for the entire church family (and any friends you would like to invite!)! We will gather in the sanctuary at 10:00 am before packing up and following the star to the third floor for some games, an easy craft that's pretty enough to display all year long, and a special snack. You'll head home with a happy heart and a blessing for your front door. Mark your calendar and plan to join the fun! I can't think of a better way to be encouraged to live as a child of the King of Kings and practice the rule of His Kingdom!

The season of celebration has begun and we have a lot to cheer about in our Pre-K and 3s classroom! Our students have learned the daily routine and continue to grow into a caring school family. It makes us as teachers smile to watch the children greet each other as friends come into the classroom at the start of their day and give "good-bye hugs" at dismissal. The children are quick to recognize when a friend is absent and eager to volunteer to lead the class in praying for him or her. They also make sure that the teachers don't forget to welcome anyone back with Fanny Frog's hopping hugs and high fives! Our smiles were extra big when two of our morning students recently announced that "a baby is growing inside of Mommy!" This news was so good and so important that one of the students asked if she could come sit next to the teacher in circle time and say what was on her mind! So much to celebrate!

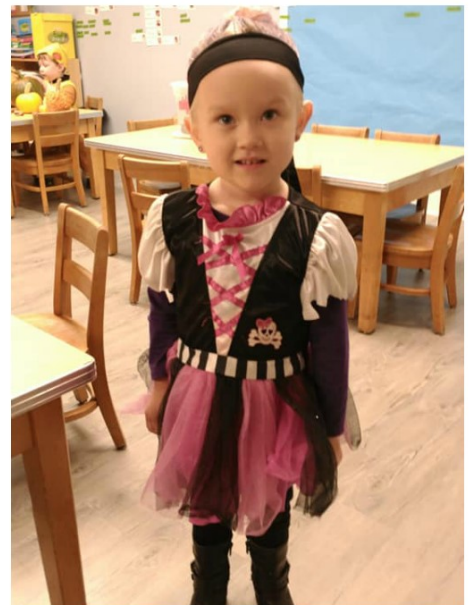

During the month of November we celebrated God's goodness to us by taking some time during our first circle to share something for which we were thankful. Most often these "somethings" were "someones" like Mom, Dad, Mimi, Pap, Brother and Sister. There were also words of gratitude expressed for dogs, bunnies, a new video game and a new bed. One morning a student declared she was "thankful to God for creating the world." We came to the realization that we could spend all day in circle time naming all that we are thankful for! One recent addition to the classroom that teachers and students alike are grateful for is a set of colorful Magnetic Tiles, purchased by the Preschool Committee. The children LOVE creating all sorts of geometric shapes and forming them into buildings of all sizes. Thank you, Committee, for such fun learning manipulatives! "Book Buddies" is yet another gift for which we are thankful. Proposed by the Preschool Committee as an opportunity to connect church members to the preschool, this program will enable each child in the school to receive a $1 to $2 book from Scholastic Book Club each month. Each student has been sponsored by a member of the church's congregation. By the time you read this newsletter the children should have their first book. We are so grateful for the congregation's generosity! Look for a picture of the happy recipients soon, as well as pictures from "A Peek at Our Preschool" and "Grandparent's Day." So much to be thankful for! So much to celebrate!

"Giants" was the theme for the month of November and will carry into December for a short time before we focus our learning activities completely on holiday happenings. Words like "enormous," "gigantic" and "colossal" started popping up on the message board and in conversations. Mighty mountains, magnificent moose, towering trees and spectacular skyscrapers elicited "wows" and "whoahs" and made for some fun learning in our centers. Icebergs were fascinating to learn about and finding out what objects would sink or float in the surrounding cold water was lots of fun, but both made for "freezing cold fingers!" We could hardly mention the South and North Pole without bringing the big guy in the red suit into the conversation. This, of course, led to talk of presents and we were back to hearing words like, "enormous," "huge" and "gigantic." These words could also describe the main event of Christmas. Truly, Jesus is the best and biggest gift of all! His birth gives us so much to celebrate!

When school resumes in January after Christmas vacation we will learn about choices—wise, kind, and healthy ones—and ways to solve problems. What better subject to begin the New Year?! That too, is reason to celebrate!

CELEBRATE EPIPHANY WITH US!

What is "epiphany?" An epiphany (from the ancient Greek ἐπιφάνεια, epiphanea, "manifestation, striking appearance") is an experience of a sudden and striking realization. The season of Epiphany notes the arrival of the three wise men who travel to meet baby Jesus. Their arrival is a striking realization that all our lives are changed for the better. Jesus was born to transform our lives ~ even the Wise Men's' lives!

Celebrate this news with us on Saturday, January 4, from 10 AM to 12 noon. All ages are welcome! Our time will include: The Magi story re-enacted and four stations featuring a star craft, creation of a home blessing box, experiencing the story through our senses, and a play dough activity will be provided. Before our time ends, we will enjoy star cookies, a King's cake, and camel food! There will also be a photo booth for fun pictures (say, "cheese!")!

Reservations are appreciated!
